There are many explanations for intolerant attitude, some (29) dating back to childhood. It is likely that intolerant forks grew up (30) imitating intolerant parents and the cycle of prejudice has simply continued for (31) generations. Perhaps intolerant people are so set in their ways that they find it easier to ignore anything that might not (32) conform to their limited view of life. Or maybe intolerant students have simply never been (33) exposed to anyone different from themselves. But none of these reasons is an excuse for allowing the intolerance to continue.
